

ARTHUR HUFF, 37, holds his throbbing head after police found the body of his wife, Ruth, buried in a shallow grave (bottom) under the coal pile in the cellar of the couple's home in Phillipsburg, N. J. Huff bolted from the house as the body was uncovered, but he was captured after a half-hour chase. Police said he admitted killing the pretty 33-year-old mother of his three teen-age daughters during an argument in their home. He said he was jealous and wanted her to quit working at a plant where she associated with men.

Coach, Two Gamblers Named As Co-Defendants In Suit To Collect Over $500,000

Lexington, Ky., (AP)—A Federal Court lawsuit asking triple damages of more than half a million dollars for alleged gambling losses yesterday named as co-defendants University of Kentucky basketball Coach Adolph Rupp, gambler Frank Costello and Ed Curd, reputed former Lexington bookmaker.

Rupp, Kentucky's coach for 24 years, immediately branded the suit a "smear campaign" and asserted his innocence of any connection with gambling.

Eberharter Critical Of Investigators

Washington, (AP)—Rep. Eberharter (D-Pa.) said yesterday "the sky is the limit" in congressional investigations, and he wouldn't be surprised if Congress were asked next to investigate radio commentators and newspaper columnists and editors.

Eberharter made the statement in an address to the Fifth National Conference on Civil Liberties.

"I wouldn't be surprised," Eberharter said, "if the next proposal to come along would be for the investigation of radio commentators, newspaper columnists and newspaper editors who do not express agreement with practices and procedures of a committee."

The conference also was told: By Philip B. Perlman, former solicitor general, that the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act is "a fraud and a sham."

By Charles M. LaFollette, former Republican congressman from Indiana and former chairman of the Subversive Activities Control Board, that there is a "well-financed campaign" to suppress discussion of changes in government.

Credit Buying Warning Issued

Washington (AP)—A 700 per cent increase in installment credit since World War II is part of a mounting load of private debts which endangers the economy, the American Savings and Loan Institute was told yesterday.

"The inverted pyramid of private debt might tumble over and do great damage," said William W. Townsend, New York economic consultant.

The total of private debt, which stood at 141 million dollars when the war ended has spiraled to more than 302 billions since then, he said.

He warned that every depression in American history has been either caused or accompanied by a collapsing "debt pyramid," but the public invariably has been told there was nothing to worry about.

Let's have just 1 killing

Let spring put an end to winter. But no other killings, please. Certainly not the needless deaths of traffic accidents. This spring, watch out for pedestrians who may not be as spry as the weather. Don't speed, just because the roads happen to be dry.

35 Soldiers Killed In Air Plane Crash Nine Die In Collision At Washington, N. J.

10th Member Of Family Badly Hurt

Washington, N. J., (AP)—Nine members of one family were killed when their car crashed head-on into a trailer truck three miles north of here last night, state police reported.

The dead were identified as Clarence Matlock of Silver Lake, N. J., his wife, four children, his mother and two sisters. The only occupant of the car still alive was his eight-year-old son Robert, who is in critical condition in Warren Hospital, Phillipsburg.

The dead were identified as Matlock, 32, a dairy farmer; his wife, Alma; three daughters, Esther, 10, Joan, 5, and Rosemary, 2; his son, Clarence Jr., 1; his mother, Elizabeth, 75, and his two sisters, Grace 48, and Mary, 50.

The two men in the trailer truck were uninjured. They were the driver, John Scantano of Scranton, Pa., and the owner, Lawrence Butler of Dunmore, Pa.

Butler told police that the trailer was heading north on Route 69 when it pulled out to pass a coal truck. He said the Matlock car was coming at them in the wrong lane and they collided head-on.

The passenger car, a 1953 Chevrolet, was thrown across the highway landing against an embankment.

The front of the car was smashed in and the left side peeled back. Seven of the occupants were thrown from the car; the three others pinned inside.

Scantano, dazed and horror-stricken, was booked at state police barracks here on a technical charge of causing death by auto.

At Warren Hospital, Robert Matlock was reported suffering from internal injuries and deep scalp cuts. Hospital authorities said he was in state of severe shock and could not be questioned.

Matlock, a brother, and his mother, operated a number of dairy farms near Silver Lake. Relatives said Mrs. Matlock is survived by 70 grandchildren.

Malenkov Elevates Khrushchev

Moscow (AP)—The Moscow radio announced yesterday that the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union has freed Prime Minister Georgi Malenkov at his own request from his duties as secretary of the Central Committee.

The committee in plenary session simultaneously elected a five-man Secretariat headed by 58-year old Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The other four members of the Secretariat listed in order were identified as Mikhail Suslov, Peter Pospelov, Nikolai Shatalin and Semyon Ignatiev.

Khrushchev was identified in western circles as a fast rising Soviet politician from the Ukraine.

Malenkov, it appears, has taken a step to buttress his power as new leader of the Soviet Union. If this is so, a new party cleanup is either on the way or already in progress.

Flanders Hits 'False Report' About Plane

Washington, (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) told the Senate yesterday the Air Force issued a "false report" in saying a U. S. bomber which fought a brief air battle with a Soviet plane off Siberia last Sunday was on a routine weather reconnaissance flight.

Reed Renews Battle For Tax Slashes

Washington (AP)—The oldest Republican in continuous service in the House said yesterday the GOP "will have sold the people down the river" unless it reduces taxes at this session of Congress.

Chairman Reed (R-NY) of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee threw that challenge to his party in proclaiming "I have not surrendered to anyone in the tax reduction battle."

He renewed an indirect charge that President Eisenhower and other GOP leaders are betraying campaign pledges by opposing early tax cuts.

The 77-year-old New Yorker said he is confident House leaders will bring to the floor "in the very near future" his bill to chop personal income tax rates 10 per cent annually starting June 30.

However, Chairman Allen (R-Ill.) of the House Rules Committee—which now has the Reed bill bottled up—said he knows of no assurance to Reed as to when the proposal will be brought to the floor.

Allen and other House leaders denied they are warring on campaign pledges. They said the GOP promised to do just what it is doing, balance the budget and then cut taxes.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said Thursday night the party did not promise tax reduction in 1953 but could make substantial cuts in 1954.

Just when House leaders planned to clear the Reed bill, it was clouded, Chairman Taft (R-NY) of the appropriations committee said yesterday it will be late May before the defense spending bill is ready for the House and June before foreign aid appropriations are ready for action.

That could indicate a similar delay for Reed's bill, to allow time for the new budget to take shape before taxes are considered.

B-29s Bomb N. Korea

Seoul, (AP)—U. S. airmen ushered in spring yesterday with a 20-plane Superfort raid on three Communist troop and supply centers in North Korea.

A survey of available space which could be converted into facilities to treat emergency cases in the event of an atom bomb attack on eastern metropolitan areas was completed this week at the Monroe County General Hospital, East Stroudsburg.

Harry Smith, hospital superintendent, revealed 367 persons could be accommodated. The present setup accords beds for 118 persons.

Cognizant that such an attack could come, hospital authorities launched their investigation into space accommodations and utilized every available inch they could find.

While no cuts or beds are on the site at present, Smith said he understood the Civil Defense volunteer workers already have contacted persons for materials, and others would be ready on short notice if an attack came.

Judge Fred W. Davis, executive director of the county's Civil Defense movement, applauded the hospital's readiness program as another step toward improving Monroe's position in the State Civil Defense plans.

He explained also that resort hotels, firehouses, schools, municipal buildings and all other meeting places and recreation halls in the county have indicated willingness to use their buildings as havens for evacuees from bombed-out cities.

Smith used the city of Bethlehem as an example of the nearest vulnerable point for an attack in describing the wholesale evacuation that might center in Monroe County.

"If and when an attack comes, Smith said, 'we at the hospital want to be ready.' He explained the augmented bed facilities probably would serve for emergency cases only, with others being treated then taken to the hotels and other county quarters for convalescence and further care.

Dulles Denies He Overrode Security Chief In Backing Bohlen For Ambassador

Washington, (AP)—Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.) charged yesterday that Secretary of State Dulles overrode objections of his chief security officer in backing Charles E. Bohlen for ambassador to Russia. Dulles promptly denied it.

The Nevada senator asserted the security chief, R. W. Scott McLeod, refused to clear Bohlen for the strategic diplomatic post, but that Dulles gave him clearance anyway in testimony before the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee Wednesday.

Dulles, in turn, said there was no difference between him and McLeod on the final evaluation of an FBI report on Bohlen's background. There is absolutely nothing in the report, the secretary said, which reflects on Bohlen as a loyalty or security risk.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) jumped into the argument with a declaration that Dulles' statement "would appear to be untrue" from what he knows of the situation.

"My information is in complete accord with what Sen. McCarran said," the Wisconsin senator told a hastily called news conference. "I know what's in Bohlen's file."

A reporter asked McCarthy if he thought Bohlen was a security risk. "That's putting it too weak," the senator replied.

McCarthy said the foreign relations committee should recall Dulles, "put him under oath," and then ask him whether he still contended there was no disagreement between himself and McLeod.

U. S. Not Fully Prepared To Defend Nation, Says Wilson

Washington, (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson said yesterday he does not think we are fully prepared to defend this country. But he said he still believes cuts can be made in military manpower and spending without weakening combat strength.

At his first news conference since taking over in the Pentagon, Wilson forecast that by July 1 there will be some reduction in the present 3 1/2 million people in uniform.

He said, too, that the monthly rate of defense spending has been frozen at the January level, of nearly four billion dollars. He said he hopes this rate can be reduced and not go up to the peak former President Truman forecast. And he said he is sure new spending authorizations can be trimmed.

Truman had proposed spending $46,296,000,000 for the military services in the forthcoming fiscal year. He said such expenditures should reach a peak in that period but then would decline until they leveled off at perhaps 35 or 40 billion dollars a year.

Wilson told questioners that "if possible" he would like to lower draft calls.

Wilson said he wished we were better prepared than we are. But he said that doesn't mean we are in a woeful or pitiful condition. "I don't think any of us should lay awake nights for fear we are going to be blasted into eternity tomorrow morning."

Big Transport Falls, Bursts Into Flames

Oakland, Calif., (AP)—A four-engine transport plane carrying some 35 crewmen and soldiers from Roswell, N. M., crashed in flames south of here yesterday, killing all aboard.

The Transocean Air Lines DC-4 cleared for a landing at Oakland Airport, crashed as it circled a hill near Decoto, site of a United Air Lines DC6B crash Aug. 24, 1951, that killed 50 persons in California's worst air disaster.

The Transocean plane skidded 100 yards, broke into bits and burst into flames, witnesses said. Part of it was hurled over a quarter-mile radius.

It burned for some time after the crash. Ambulances had difficulty reaching the scene because of the sticky mud in the newly plowed field in which the plane crashed.

Mrs. Henry Andrade, who lives only 300 yards from the crash scene, said the first she knew of the disaster was a loud noise. She looked out a window and saw "a great ball of fire."

She said she saw the men with their clothes on fire, some on the ground and some trying to

AN ETERNAL FORCE

The wind is like the power of God.
It is invisible—you can neither see nor touch it. And yet it will carry a sailboat skimming across the waves with all the beauty and grace and freedom of a seagull. But whereas the wind may die and leave you drifting aimlessly and helplessly with the tide, the strength of God remains eternally steadfast.
It is through the Church that man is given understanding of this Power. For by worshipping God he can acquire the spiritual insight which gives fuel to his soul and purpose for his pursuits.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Turnpike Troopers

Whether the Pennsylvania Turnpike gets a considerable increase in the number of State Police patrol cars is contingent upon action of the present legislature on an overall addition to the basic force under Col. C. M. Wilhelm.

Turnpike officials have said that they stand ready to enlarge the patrol on the 'pike from its present 66 to 100 troopers, or whatever seems to be the number required to assure greater safety on the highway.

There is legislation presently before the General Assembly to bring the State Police complement to 2,000 from its present 1,800 men, with the acts now in committees of both Senate and House. Should there be favorable actions on these bills, it is probable that the Turnpike would have assigned to it a number of additional troopers in their patrol cars.

An addition to the State Police is highly desirable, with the great burden placed on that comparatively small force by a state the size of Pennsylvania. And if some of the proposed additional personnel could be assigned Turnpike duty, the results should show at once.

Probe the Probes

The epidemic of Congressional probes has brought a demand by Republican leaders that the probes, themselves, go under the spotlight. We heartily agree.

The number of inquiries conducted or under consideration by Congress has reached ludicrous proportions. Congress has, in the past two years, probed everything from ant hills to zebra huts. The cost, on an inconsiderate factor in the program, has run almost $4 million in two years, and thus far this year another $1.3 million has been appropriated to conduct or extend probes.

There is no question that Congressional probes have in some cases proved of value in placing before our lawmakers some cogent facts concerning legislation at hand, or needed. The crime probe conducted under the guidance of Senators Kefauver and Tobey did much to bring to the attention of the American people the depth to which evil had penetrated our political system. There were other probes of equal worth. But for the most part the probes have had a field day traveling and snooping at public expense.

The probe of the probes should establish which of the scores of inquiries are worthwhile and needed to further the interests of the country or the taxpayer. Any which falls short of coming under those classifications should be put back on the shelf. And no question.

The Voice of Yucca Flat

Merely department store dummies in an atomic bomb test at Yucca Flat . . . but did they not stare at the living everywhere and say, "You, the people of flesh and blood, are the ones to be jolted!" Did not the plastic stuffed figures flash the question, "How crazy can people get when they have minds and hearts instead of straw and cotton inside?" Well, to this department, the human race, following the scene at Yucca Flat, didn't look any more sensible than if its members, too, had plastic bodies, unfeeling inwards and plastic features.

Just before the explosion we dropped in fancy into one of the two white frame houses in which the dummies met the test and had a chat with them . . . Popper Dummy, Mommer Dummy and the rest. "You're certainly in a tough spot," we said to Popper Dummy.

"Look who's talking!" put in the entire Dummy family at once.

"What I mean is that you are really taking it," we said.

"Don't run away with the notion that only dummies are in danger," said Popper Dummy. "In fact, speaking of dummies, mister aren't we all?"

"Of course, you are just figures," we went on. "You have no brain; no senses that give pain and understanding."

"It must be terrible to have a brain and use it, for what human beings of all countries are using brains for," put in Mommer Dummy. "We have nothing but sawdust in our heads, but I'll say one thing for sawdust: It never thinks up any new methods for human destruction. That goes for a heart too. All I have for a heart is a wad of cotton, but it is incapable of cruelty."

We remarked that all the dummies in the Yucca Flat explosion were fixed stares and such stupid expressions.

"You mean the expression on the faces of live human beings these days is GOOD?" exclaimed the dummies in unison again.

"Aren't you scared?" we asked a group of four dummies seated in front of a fireplace in the doomed house.

"Nothing scares us except a fear we might some day turn out to be HUMAN BEINGS," was the reply.

One wax figure seemed to have a more intelligent expression than the others. It turned out this one, a clothing store dummy, had been in a window opposite a book store for some time. The book store had featured an exhibit of Bibles during the Lenten season. This dummy wore a plainly puzzled look.

"Dummies haven't much with which to think," he explained, "but somewhere, somehow I got the story of Golotha, the Place of the Skull, and heard the words 'Plating a crown of thorns, they put it on His head.' . . . 'They spat in His face and buffeted Him.' . . ."

SOME DAY, ANOTHER AMMUNITION SHORTAGE

PUBLIC FORUM

HEALTH INSURANCE THE AMERICAN WAY

The problem which lies nearest the heart of any community is the health of its citizens. Whether the town is a large metropolitan area or a small mountain village, sickness is an ever-present possibility, ready to take its toll of the population. Effective prevention of disease and prompt and competent treatment of illness, then, are vital issues in the controversy of Compulsory versus Voluntary Health Insurance. Americans have always supported freedom of choice insofar as it is possible to solve national problems by the decisions which individual citizens make for themselves. Some politicians would question this freedom of choice where it concerns public health. They say that Compulsory Health Insurance would increase national health and decrease the death rate; that it would give us cheaper medical care; that it would provide more doctors and hospitals; and that we would get better medical service in the long run. Let us examine the case for Compulsory Insurance as put forth by the Federal Security Administration in comparison with the points in favor of Voluntary Insurance advised by the American Medical Association.

Would Compulsory Health Insurance lower the death rate? During the past fifty years, the life expectancy of a child born in the United States has jumped from 49 years to 68 years. The number one killer between the ages of 20 and 65 is neither heart disease nor cancer, but fatal accidents. The infant mortality rate has dropped 69 per cent in the past 35 years and total yearly deaths have dropped from 17,000 to 5,000. Our standards of health are now higher than those of any other major nation and there is no reason to suppose that this trend toward better health and longer life will not continue under the same system which has thus far been responsible for it.

Would Compulsory Health Insurance give us cheaper medical care? The F.S.A. says that most Americans cannot afford adequate medical service but it is a fact that at least 80 per cent of the American people can afford not only adequate, but good, medical care. The other 20 per cent are given free medical care in clinics and state aided hospitals. More than 75 million people are now covered by hospital insurance plans, 40 million by surgical insurance plans and 25 million by medical-care insurance plans. These various types of insurance pay as much as 80 per cent of the hospital expenses incurred and from 50 to 60 per cent of doctor bills. The cost for family coverage can be as low as $2 or as much as $6 per month, to be shared equally in most cases by employer and employee. If the average family were compelled to pay tax, these costs would be doubled and possibly tripled. No actual figures are available on the amount of money needed for a Compulsory Health Insurance program here, but estimates range from 3 to 10 per cent of the monthly paycheck with a total cost to the nation of 6 to 18 billion dollars annually. Furthermore, no nation which has tried the plan has ever been able to estimate the cost correctly. In New Zealand, the cost for the first five years was 2 1/2 times as great as the estimate, and in England the National Health Service cost double the government estimate in its very first year of operation. The medical benefits should certainly be superior, to compensate for such a huge tax burden! But not all of this money goes for medical care because of the clerks, administrators, bookkeepers and tax-collectors needed to make the system function. How could we receive more and better medical care when our money would be spent to pay the salaries of all these non-medical employees?

Would Compulsory Health Insurance make available more doctors and medical facilities? Those in favor of the program say that there is a grave national shortage of doctors, hospitals and other medical facilities. It is true that during the past 30 years, our supply of doctors has remained almost static. This seems like a very serious state of affairs, but there is a reason for it. Many of the doctors of the "good old days" graduated from diploma-mill medical schools where an M.D. was available for a few years' study and the payment of a sum of money. These cheap medical colleges were done away with by a campaign led by the medical profession prior to 1920. It takes ten years of post-high school training to make a doctor, but that doctor can now accomplish more, with the aid of modern science, than could ten doctors 30 years ago. Medical progress has made statistics about a national doctor shortage meaningless. There is indeed a shortage of doctors for our rural communities, but it can be and is being remedied by the construction of better medical facilities to attract them. There is no region so poor that it cannot build a hospital or clinic through fund raising and with federal aid. Scholarships are also being offered in rural areas for boys who will study medicine and come back to practice in their own home towns. Hundreds of examples could be cited, of communities which have taken care of their own health problems with state aid and which will continue to do so under the voluntary plan. Compulsion is not needed here.

Would we get better medical care with Compulsory Health Insurance? We have every reason to suppose that Compulsory Health Insurance would mean the same thing in America as it does in every other country where medicine is controlled by politics. Regimentation of patients and doctors leads to the deterioration of medical education, training and research, degeneration of medical standards and of medical care, and a steady decline in the people's health. When doctors are responsible to politicians first and patients second, speed and uniformity become the order of the day, and mediocre medical service is the result. Tacit admission of this was made when the F.S.A. told the 1949 National Association of Retail Druggists Convention that they would "sell more aspirin and mineral oil" and profit "enormously" under Compulsory Health Insurance. Mass produced health service would mean doctors' time wasted on red tape and paper work. Physicians' offices would become clogged with hypochondriacs and people looking for a cheap day off from their jobs. People who really needed medical attention would fail to get proper care. Medical privacy would be done away with completely. Our death rate might even go up, as Britain's did under the new system!

What about those doctors whose unethical practices give the medical profession a bad name? To be sure, there is justifiable grievance against a certain amount of medical overcharging, neglect and bad practice. To remedy this, grievance committees have been set up by the A.M.A. to clean house by revoking the licenses of certain offending physicians.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

There Is No Reason Why Government Jobs Should Produce Lazier Workers

They Are People, Too

Professors and clergymen are people, too. They do not limit their human relations to the functional vocations by which they earn their livelihoods. They have human passions and they suffer from human foibles; they love and hate; some are wise in the ways of the world, some are stupid in many things outside their chosen spheres.

In a word, professors and clergymen are not an elite apart and different from all other citizens. Even as you and I, they are human. This discovery may shock some of them.

Recently, Congressman Harold H. Velde said something about looking into the doings of the clergy and immediately a hue and cry went forth about religious freedom. If a clergyman committed a murder, as has sometimes happened, no one relates that to the sanctity of religion. It means only that one clergyman was irreligious and permitted his human passions to mislead him. A sinner, he must take the consequences of his wrongdoing, here and hereafter, the same as any other murderer would have to.

Actually, to assume otherwise would, in itself, be a violation of the Commandments, because it would make of this servant of God a deity, a god on earth, not a man but a creature beyond man. No self-respecting clergyman of any church of God would permit anyone to so insult him.

Therefore, while several years ago, when lists of those endorsing Communist purposes appeared in the "Daily Worker," they contained few names of the clergy, today, by actual count, the clergy show up with about 50 per cent of all names.

This phenomenon requires analysis and study and that is being done by those who are concerned with Communist infiltration in the United States.

Several explanations are given for this:

1. Many clergymen are deeply moved by the need for peace in the world. While they are not necessarily Communists, they are joining through the process of joining committees and signing petitions which are Communist-inspired and directed. Many an actor or professor got himself into trouble for joining with Communists in causes which seemed innocent and humane but were designed to harm America.

It is impossible to say that a Christian minister should not support a peace movement if that is what his conscience dictates. Yet, as a man and a citizen, whatever his vocation, when he permits himself to become a pawn in the Communist effort to destroy the American will to resist the forces for our destruction as a people, forces formerly directed by Stalin and now by Malenkov, then he becomes a peril to our civilization and, again whatever his vocation, he must suffer the consequences of his decisions.

2. In a free society there are no orthodox and no unorthodox opinions. A man may believe what he wishes to believe and may express his views as he chooses. He is responsible for his own decisions whatever they may be.

The current use of the term, "unorthodox views," is an absurdity in the American society because there are no orthodox views. No one can say what is orthodox. Was William Jennings Bryan orthodox when he ran against William McKinley? Yet Bryan led a great political party and he might have been elected President. He did serve as Secretary of State.

In a thought-controlled state, like Soviet Russia, unorthodox views lead to purges, imprisonment and even death. In the United States when men disagree, they argue, they debate. But there is no state intervention in anyone's private life, except when the American acts as an agent for a foreign power. Then he ceases to be a free man; he is a slave to his alien masters who use him to destroy us.

That has nothing to do with orthodox or unorthodox opinions. It does have to do with destructive conduct designed to break down our society. It is revolutionary action with the purpose of subjecting the minds of our people to the will of an organized conspiracy.

There was a time when men, in this country, could take a soapbox, pick a corner, and hurl hatred against our way of life with impunity. It meant nothing more than a scratch on granite with a penknife.

But when a foreign power uses our own sons and daughters as instruments for our destruction, then we need to know what is going on.

would not prevent disease and death any more effectively than our present voluntary plan. On the contrary, it might even increase the mortality rate by using hospital beds for minor ailments while emergency cases went begging. The compulsory program would definitely not be cheaper. Even though we wouldn't pay the doctor, we'd still pay—and pay plenty. While there might be more doctors, their time would be so taken up by paper work that the quantity of medical service could not be appreciably increased. And finally, Compulsory Health Insurance would certainly not increase the quality of medical service. By robbing doctor-patient relationships of the personal element, it would remove the understanding often necessary for a good diagnosis.

The supporters of the Compulsory Health Insurance program refrain from calling their plan "Socialized Medicine" because "socialized" is one of the words which we here in a free America dislike almost instinctively, but socialized medicine is what it amounts to. And if we socialize the doctors, we must realize that it is then but a short step to socialized farming, socialized mining and socialized manufacturing. In short, if we accept Socialized Medicine in the guise of Compulsory Health Insurance, we may well be started along the road that leads in but one direction—toward the Socialistic Welfare State.

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

Two items from Yale University have aroused my interest. I shall report the least important one first.

A survey, begun in 1937 and planned to be finished around 1957, is expected to be of great benefit to mankind. In view of the fact that $200,000 has been appropriated by the Department of Defense and that several other considerable contributions have been made, it better be worth a lot to mankind.

The survey deals with man's works, ideas and habits, with his culture, ethics and usages. It covers 700 different categories, all filed away according to a key called "Outline of Cultural Material."

By this key you can find out just about everything you want to know about that strange specimen called "MAN."

Potter's Field in New Haven is not too far away from Yale's culture file.

Perhaps one day Mrs. Ardenghi's deed may be recorded there. But it will never show the "WHY."

On the archway over the gate will be this inscription from the 25th Chapter of St. Matthew: "Unto The Least Of These."

Mrs. Ardenghi will provide enough money so that the interest will pay for all the upkeep expenses.

For instance, if you should want to know how to get fresh water on a Pacific Island, you would look under "Drink and Indulgence" and then under the sub-topie "Water and Thirst."

Unfortunately you would find that the answers to this question are given in Japanese documents. But there are translations, so that you may safely proceed to the island and not be short of water.

With all the "cultural" information contained in the files, there does not seem to be a single bit of enlightenment on WHY people do the funny things they do.

You can find a lot about folk dances and eating habits and sexual behavior.

You can find about everything that people all over the world do. But there isn't anything about WHY they do it.

I guess the principal reason is that you cannot catalogue man's spirit. You can draw diagrams of the human heart and put them in the files. But you cannot draw, catalogue or file the human SOUL, any more than you can draw, catalogue, or file GOD.

Now to the other item.

Assignment Moscow

The darkness that covers the Soviet Union has made truth a shadowy ghost. This fact has again become evident by the front-page conjectures following Stalin's death. It is well to remember that the Kremlin considers every reporter a propagandist.

Hence the task of being a foreign correspondent in Russia not only demands the utmost in journalistic perception. It also involves the ultimate in personal risk. Foreign newsmen there have no diplomatic immunity. Their wires are tapped and they are constantly under surveillance. Their isolation is almost complete—since it is extremely hazardous for ordinary Russians to maintain any contact with them . . . As one reporter in Moscow has observed: "We are presumed to be guests in Russia, but we are virtually prisoners of war."

The obstacles facing foreign correspondents in Russia are both formidable and ominous. However, they have been occasionally surmounted. The most notable triumph was achieved by Floyd Gibbons. His feat represented the victory of rare boldness plus remarkable imagination.

When famine was rampant in the U.S.S.R. Floyd learned that Maxim Litvinov was conducting negotiations in Riga with American officials to help alleviate the food scarcity. The flamboyant Gibbons promptly chartered a private plane in Berlin and winged it to Riga. The following day Gibbons was summoned to the Soviet Legation. Litvinov snapped: "I heard you plan to fly to Moscow and land on the Red Square as a protest against Soviet censorship. Do you realize you will be met by a hail of bullets and promptly imprisoned?"

Gibbons carried out his big bluff with aplomb. He replied that he was not frightened and intended to fulfill his plans. Aware of Floyd's daredevilry and fearful that such an incident would result in the collapse of negotiations with Americans—Litvinov finally consented to give Gibbons permission to visit famine-stricken Russian towns . . . P. S.: Floyd obtained a series of exclusive page onebers.

Covering the Moscow beat is frequently a tedious task that demands superhuman patience. Many reporters constantly relayed query-cramped missives to the Kremlin in the hope that Stalin would answer one. When he replied they had a " scoop." His replies, of course, were strictly propaganda maneuvers.

One newsman wrote Stalin a daily letter for 8 years. He never received a single acknowledgment.

There is an American reporter named John Reed buried beside the Kremlin's wall. His career was one of journalism's profound tragedies. Reed's superb reportorial gifts were betrayed by his political indiscretion . . . He was in his early 20s when his brilliant coverage of Pancho Villa's raids in Mexico gained national acclaim. At that time Walter Lippmann hailed John Reed with: "If all history had been reported as you are doing this, Lord! I say that with Jack Reed reporting begins."

Paradoxically and tragically, this rich man's son surrendered his fame and fortune in the U.S. and succumbed to the mirage of Communism. He went to Russia and served as Lenin's top advisor. John Reed became a Man Without a Country. He died at 33.

Moscow's stern censorship often reduces foreign correspondents to impotent frustration. But such blue-penciling is usually defeated. When the reporter leaves Russia his censored material is made public . . . This fact was exemplified by Brooks Atkinson when the N. Y. Times drama critic covered Moscow.

When he returned to New York Atkinson wrote a series of masterful reports about Russia that gained the supreme accolade. The Russian press showered him with epithets that ranged from "journalistic gangster" to "a mercenary bandit, not fit to whip." . . . Vishinsky called me that in one of his first harangues (all of it devoted to me) at the U. N.

Sen. Crowe Attacks Greenfield Plan For River Development

Points Finger Of Suspicion At Proposal

Sen. Montgomery F. Crowe pointed the finger of suspicion Thursday night at the "Greenfield Plan" which has been offered as an alternative to Incodel (Interstate Commission for the Delaware River Basin).

Incodel, he explained to 25 sportsmen at the Court House in Stroudsburg, is a proposed compact between Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Delaware to control the Delaware's water by building impounded dams in the upper reaches.

Every state but Pennsylvania has approved the compact.

Gov. John S. Fine called Sen. Crowe to his office and asked him to explain Incodel, the senator said. Crowe did. A full meeting with the commission's representatives followed.

Gov. Fine withheld approval from the legislature-sponsored Incodel, and instead appointed his own committee to investigate.

Among the things which Sen. Crowe considered undesirable about this committee—the Pennsylvania Water Resources Committee—are these, he said:

One—William A. Schnader, a "brilliant lawyer and former attorney-general under Pinchot," is the committee's attorney. At the same time he is attorney for the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Co., which stands to benefit strongly from the "Greenfield Plan" but not from Incodel.

Two—The engineers for the committee (those who did the survey and drew up the new proposal) are Gannett, Fleming, Corddry, and Carpenter, are also the engineers for Lehigh Coal and Navigation.

Sen. Crowe said there "may be no connection," but the day after the Greenfield Plan was announced the stock of Lehigh Coal and Navigation "went up three points."

"Another thing that seemed very suspicious," said the senator, "was that no one could get a copy of the Greenfield Plan until I introduced a resolution in the Senate that the committee should produce the plan."

The senator said the Greenfield Plan proposed to do the same thing Incodel proposes to do, but would remain entirely within the State. There would be no connection with other States.

Pointing to a map of the Greenfield Plan, the senator indicated the lands owned by the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Co. which would be inundated. These thousands of acres would have to be paid for by the State if they were flooded, he said. It seemed a way for the company to "dump its land on a water project" like this one, the senator said.

Crowe said he has asked the Commission on Interstate Cooperation to hold hearings on Incodel, the Greenfield Plan and any other water-control programs to determine which one is best for the State.

One of these other programs, he said, was a suggestion of the Sun Oil Co. that water might be diverted from Lake Erie into the Susquehanna River. At a point where the Susquehanna and Delaware are but 12 miles apart, the surplus water could be again diverted by aqueduct into the Delaware.

Sen. Crowe said he is no longer a member of the Commission on Interstate Cooperation. He was removed for opposing Gov. Fine's State income tax bill (but received 30,000 letters of congratulation).

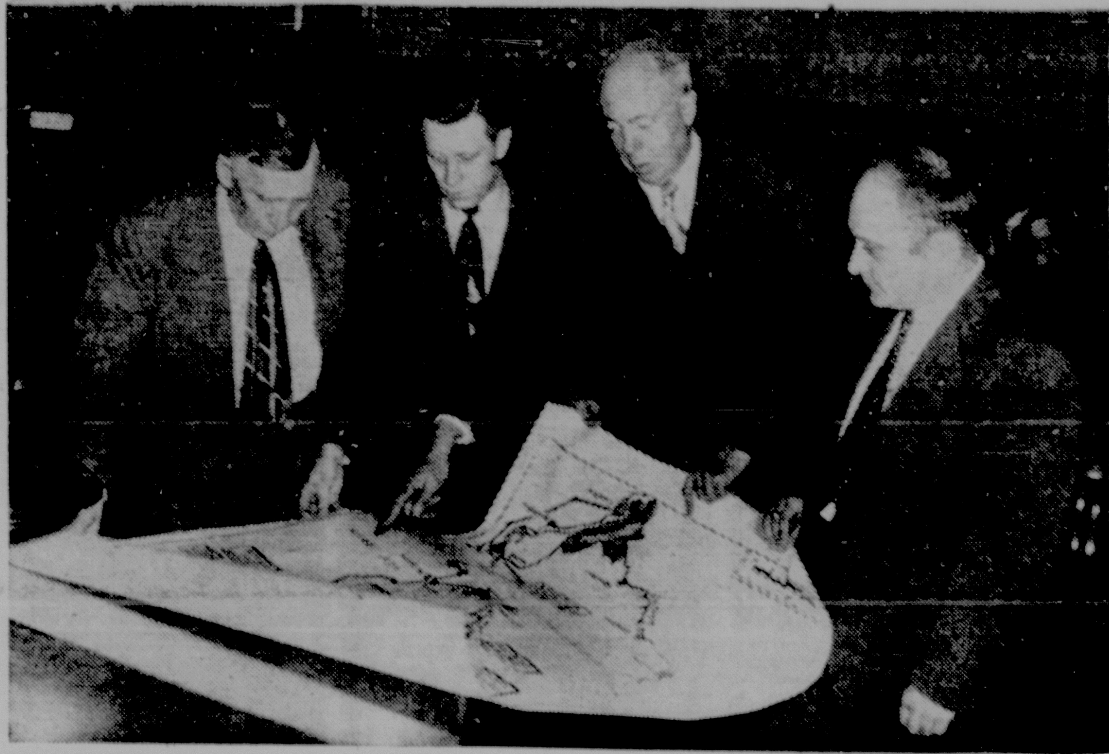

The background and purposes of Incodel were explained by James H. Allen, executive secretary of the commission.

He told how impounding dams would be built in New York and Pennsylvania in the upper Delaware reaches; how the flow would be regulated so that floods would be held in reserve, and low flows eliminated in the drought seasons.

A film was shown which explained Incodel graphically, then came a question period. The secretary kept his composure when subjected to the heckling of one or two of those present.

One of these questions—delivered in the "Isn't it true that" manner—was about the rumor that New York "power interests" were promoting Incodel so they could sell power from the project.

Allen dismissed this as "simply not true . . . no foundation." The questioner said his information came from a "high source" and

Bank Deposits In County Total $26 Million; Gains Since 1944 Exceed National Average

(Special to the Record)

New York — Residents of Monroe County have more money in the bank than do people in most sections of the country. Their total deposits in local banks come to $26,018,000, a high figure for their population.

The data comes from the Federal Reserve System, which has just issued a comprehensive report showing bank deposits on hand, as of the close of the last fiscal year, in every county in the United States.

Included are accounts in savings banks, called time deposits, and those in commercial banks, demand deposits, for individuals, partnerships and corporations. Not included are governmental and interbank deposits.

The total on deposit in Monroe County banks, if apportioned equally among the county population, would amount to $752 per capita.

This is more than is found in the United States as a whole, excluding the five largest cities with their securities markets, the average being $657 per capita.

Bank deposits are generally regarded by economists as one of the important indicators of the state of a community's business health.

In Monroe County's case, the figures point to good health. Its current cash position, $26,918,000, is a 59.1 per cent rise over the $16,389,000 on deposit in 1944, when a previous such survey was made by the Federal Reserve. The local increase compares favorably with that recorded for the entire country in the period, 48.4 per cent.

The significance of bank deposit size is noted by the Federal Reserve, which states: "If the public finds it can get along with less pocket money, it begins to deposit some of its cash in bank accounts."

The American public's savings passed the $200 billion mark for the first time last year, according to the United States Savings and Loan League.

Actively participating in the gains, as holders of the people's money, were savings associations and life insurance companies.

Varsity S Club Entertains Large Crowd At Annual Show

In an atmosphere of informality, Stroudsburg Varsity S Clubbers presented their second annual "Past-Times Revue" last night.

A near-capacity crowd roared enthusiastically at jokes slanted in the direction of well-known teachers, students and coaches.

Tom Waring, who directed the overall program, also served as master-of-ceremonies, introducing each act with brief, revealing comments.

Beginning with a "dumb act" bringing to life famous statuary, the revue proceeded through "The Speech," a satire on political speakers; "The Match," a comedy golf match; "The Song," a series of numbers by the Flatbush Four; "The Play," a political-comedy adaptation of "Little Red Riding Hood;" "The Trio," three current "S Clubbers" giving their comments on current sports in a patter song written by Waring especially for the program; "The Magician," a takeoff on the usual magic act that he could "name names . . . But he didn't."

Another question was on comparative costs of the two plans. Allen said Incodel would cost (by 1950 prices) $564 million, of which $416 million would be paid off completely by revenue from selling water to New York and New Jersey.

The balance of $150 million would be split up among the four states for the cost of maintaining the minimum flow during drought seasons.

Pennsylvania's share of the cost: $60 million.

Cost to the State of the Greenfield Plan: $100 million, by its own figures.

The meeting was sponsored by the Pocono Mountains Sportsmen's Association, with president Jacob Kintz in charge.

House Group Seeks To Cut Fine Requests

Harrisburg, (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee set out yesterday to slice $50 million dollars from appropriation requests made by Gov. John S. Fine.

Chairman Norman Wood (R-Lancaster) said his committee is using that figure as a tentative goal without certainty that it will be achieved.

"We're out to cut wherever we can," he told a newsman. "We have asked departments what effect a 10 per cent reduction in their appropriations would have on department operations."

The committee may have tough sledding in view of Fine's declaration that he already has pared 66 millions from departmental requests before presenting his $1,400,000,000 budget to the legislature in January.

The Appropriations Committee goal obviously was made with little hope that Chesterman economy proposals will clear the legislature in their entirety.

If all Chesterman recommendations are carried out, they would save 100 millions a biennium in taxpayers' money by 1960.

But the problem of the economy-minded lawmakers is immediate.

Unless they can slash costs for the next biennium starting June 1 they will be faced with the problem of raising 157 millions in new taxes. Adoption of the Chesterman proposals would slice that figure by 16 millions.

Spring Makes Official Bow After Several Weeks Of Spring-Like Temperatures

Today is the day when "a young man's fancy turns—" to the things the girls have been thinking about all Winter.

Officially, it's the first day of Spring. If you're scientific-minded you say it's the start of the Vernal Equinox.

If you're the kind of person with a green thumb you say to heck with the housework and start planting things.

If you're a baseball fan, it's the beginning of the best season of the year. Some people think it's the only one.

But if you're just an ordinary, Winter-worn human being who's tired of cold weather and weary of central heating you can relax and say: "It's about time."

Actually, Spring walked in yesterday at 5:01 p. m.

One Sarah St. housewife jumped the gun; spent a half-hour before Spring in the yard whamming at a dusty throw rug draped on her clothesline.

Several people thought they were catching Spring fever.

Whatever effect the season may have on you, you're stuck with it for the next three months and one day. Summer is slated to begin at noon on June 21.

This morning, when the sun comes up (if it doesn't rain), you can stop looking for the bluebird. Spring (sniffle) is (sob) here!

Milk Prices To Decline Cent April 1

Milk will drop one cent a quart beginning April 1.

S. Clair Smith, manager for the Lehigh Valley Co-operative Farms, Inc., here, said the price cut is pursuant to an order of the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission.

It effects prices in all local areas including Monroe County and Lehman Township of Pike County which is Area 6. Remainder of Pike County is joined with the Scranton region in Area 5, where the drop is also one cent per quart.

The commission's order applies the cut to smaller quantities in the same proportion—half cent a pint and quarter cent a half pint.

In Area 6—Monroe County and Lehman Township—wholesale price will drop from 22 cents a quart to 21 cents. The retail price will drop from 24 cents a quart to 23 cents.

In Area 5—including remainder of Pike County and the Scranton region, wholesale price is cut from 24 to 23 cents a quart and the retail from 26 to 25 cents a quart.

Similar reductions affect chocolate milk and buttermilk.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

I heartily agree with Dr. Adams, who at the School for Parents this week suggested that dinner time was the one time of the day when the family was all together and could indulge in conversation for its own sake, without strain or hurry. In theory, that is, I agree with him.

I wonder, though, what he'd do about Friday nights? Friday night with the pantry shelves fully stocked, with no homework waiting to be done, should be the perfect time for a leisurely family visit. However Friday night is also the Kid's Night Out.

All right, say it's the play or maybe a dance they're going to. Eight o'clock gives you plenty of time, you think, to sit in peace if you're ready to sit down at 6. You think, but that's without counting on teen-ager's inner alarm clocks.

For something like that, they run at twice the speed of ordinary timepieces. You sit down to eat at 6; by 6:10 their plates are clean and they're staring at the mounds of food on your plate, watching every bite, with anxious eyes.

Conversation at that point is bound to get a bit stilted. And then they start bringing in the dessert. That's when they start counting the times you chew each bite. Actually, it's rather a relief when they ask to be excused to get ready.

Except it's like having a vocal metronome calling down the stairs, "It's half past six," "It's almost seven," "We're going to be late!" What does Dr. Adams mean, without strain or hurry?

Coronation Fashions, 1903, 1953 for Mt. Pocono Show

"Coronation Fashions of 1903 and 1953" as presented by the Pocono Mountains Council of Republican Women promises to far outshine last year's production featuring Pocono honeymoons. At the regular monthly meeting of the group at the home of Mrs. George H. Humphrey, Pocono Road, on Tuesday, March 17, the response of all committees showed that plans are rapidly crystallizing into a show in Hollywood language, "colossal." Nothing is being overlooked by the enthusiastic members of the group to make the production authentic and as elaborate as possible.

Mrs. Andrew McGinley, co-chairman with Mrs. Louis C. Ingersoll, of the program committee, announced that all advertising had been received and the booklet is now being printed by "The Record" as a "souvenir" playbill complete with a "who's who" of the cast, a discussion of the group's welfare plans, and a cover designed by Matt Levine of Allentown. She commended the committee consisting of Mrs. Paul McBride, Mrs. Paul Derr, Mrs. Janet Schultz, Mrs. Ernest Wismer and Mrs. Alvin Niering for the excellent way in which they had conducted their advertising soliciting campaign.

Mrs. Harry Taylor accepted the chairmanship of the ticket committee for Mount Pocono and Swiftwater, with Mrs. Stanley Quick as ticket chairman for Tobyhanna. Tickets were distributed to members for sale, and can be secured from the chairman or any members of the club. Those wishing reservations for dinner on April 17 in the Pocono Manor dining room can reserve a table for dinner and the show by contacting Mrs. David Neisen at Mount Pocono 5595. Reservations will be made in the order in which they are received.

Mrs. Lloyd Shaulffer, chairman of the properties committee reported that a wide selection of clothes had been borrowed for the 1902 sequence. Mrs. Shaulffer is being assisted by Mrs. Walter Scheider, Mrs. E. O. Hendrick, Mrs. Brian Walker Jr., Mrs. Frances McHale and Mrs. Arthur Kresge. Mrs. McHale, whose son has just returned from two years in England, has loaned the committee an excellent guide to the coronation festivities procured by her son while abroad.

In both the 1903 version of a trip to the Coronation and the story of 1903 when Edward VII and Queen Alexandra were crowned, the grand climax of the production will be the presence of the royal personages themselves in the clothes worn to the Coronation Ball. Today's "Queen Elizabeth" the "Queen Mother Elizabeth" and "Princess Margaret Rose" will wear Hartnell designed gowns prepared especially for this show by Hess Brothers of Allentown. The "Duke of Edinburgh," "Dowager Queen Mary" and "Winston Churchill" are being outfitted in New York in exact copies of their own clothes worn on similar occasions.

"President Theodore Roosevelt," "Woodrow Wilson" and other personages of the 1903 era will attend the show. The committee has still not completed the casting of the production. Council members are being assisted by members of the Rotary Club and Lions Club as members of the cast.

Proceeds of the show on April 17 at Pocono Manor will be used for a community welfare fund. A Coronation Ball in the Terrace Room at Pocono Manor will follow the show. An orchestra will play during the dinner and show and for the dancing afterward. Formal clothes are not necessary.

Endorsement Committee Announced

E. H. Wyckoff, honorary chairman of the YMCA $350,000 finish the job building fund campaign, announces the following members of the Citizens Endorsement Committee:

Richard Crooks, Fred Waring, Sebastian S. Kresge, Mrs. W. D. Palmer, C. Raymond Bensinger, Charles M. Thompson, Elmer Kuntz, Frank B. Michaels, Barclay White, Sen. Montgomery F. Crowe, Dr. Charles J. Naegle, Mrs. Nelson Beers, Robert K. Christenberry, Dr. James Kitchen, Homer Shupp and Dr. David Kohn.

By serving on the Citizens Endorsement Committee they evidence a sympathetic interest in the decided success of the campaign, Mr. Wyckoff said. They feel it is most fitting that the Monroe County YMCA should provide the present and future generations of youth in the Pocono area with up-to-date buildings and equipment, he added.

The group will be present at the inaugural dinner to be held at the Penn Stroud Hotel at 6:15 p.m., April 6, joining 50 members of the Special Gifts Committee and the over 250 team organization workers and committee men and women.

Youth Center Join Forces With Monroe County YMCA

For some time the Youth Center and the YMCA have been discussing the possibility of uniting forces. John Eaton, president of the Youth Center, and its group of directors have agreed along with the YMCA Board of Directors to join forces and become the Youth Committee of the Monroe County YMCA. The committee will be made up of representatives of the various centers in the county.

The committee so far is composed of John Eaton, chairman; Ray Caffer, Marianne Harmon, Marlene Sabatine, Janet Stewart, Jean Woolever, Earl Rose and Effie Rider. The latter two are members of the Youth Committee from Barrett Township.

The Youth Center will conduct its programs as in the past and have its own constitution and by-laws and elect its own officers, but will be a part of the overall program of the YMCA.

One of the functions of the YMCA Youth Committee at present is to promote the building fund campaign which is now in progress. Committees on distribution of literature and information concerning the new building will be appointed in the near future.

The Youth Center has been conducting dances at the American Legion on Saturday nights for the past two years and has had real success with this program. The center will continue to function in the Legion until facilities at the YMCA are available.

The Youth Center and the YMCA are unanimous in commending the splendid work which the Legion has done and will continue to do for youth.

40 Captains Enlisted In Y Campaign

Additional captains have been enlisted in the YMCA "Finish the Job" Building Fund Campaign organization. The new captains who complete the list of 40 required in the organization are:

Raymond O'Melko, Team 20; Stephen Moffett, Team 23; Mrs. Jack LaBar, Team 24; T. Manning Curtis, Team 25; Miss Marie Cody, Team 27; William Wilcox, Team 28; William Thomas, Team 29; Mrs. Clifford Heller, Team 30; Larry Levy, Team 33; Carl Decker, Team 34; Mrs. Thomas Rinehart, Team 35; Robert Hellman, Team 39, and Mrs. Arnold Eschenbach, Team 40.

Holt Wyckoff, campaign chairman said the captains are now engaged in recruiting five workers each. They hope to accomplish this task by the time of the captains' meeting to be held Thursday night, March 26, at the Penn Stroud Hotel.

Mr. Wyckoff also said the task of raising $350,000 to complete the building program was large and would require some monumental gifts through the Special Gifts Committee. He stated, however, that the task of the team organization, namely to raise $50,400, was within reach of a determined group of 200-workers, 40 captains, eight division managers, assisted by various special committees.

The Special Gifts Committee will strive for a goal of $299,600.

The teams' $50,400 goal is broken down as follows: each section, $25,200; each division, $6,300; each team, $1,260, each worker, $210. These, Wyckoff stated, were informal quotas. Every worker is only asked to do his or her level best, and it is hoped that the citizens of Monroe County will respond with the investment type of gifts spread over six payments and three income tax years.

Citizens are invited to call at the old YMCA building, not only to see the beginning of the new building, but to fully realize that the present facilities are entirely inadequate to serve Monroe County and its thriving communities and increasing population.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Now that the controversial "one-and-one" foul rule is here to stay, at least for one more basketball season, it might be a good time to see how a sophomore class in practical basketball and theory at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College would have liked to have seen the national rules makers revise the current setup. All 33 boys in the class are majors in physical education and the class is instructed appropriately enough by Chris Denis, head basketball coach at the college.

The class first and foremost voted to abolish the "one-and-one" nonsense once and for all, but was virtually agreed to retain the current three-minute rule, which in this writer's mind is one of the best rulings set down in recent years. The class would also like to see the number of personal fouls needed to expel a player reduced from five to four, a rule that once existed. The class thought that by reducing the number of personal fouls, the respective players would become more careful of their fouling tactics during the course of a game.

It was also decided by the ESSTC students that it would be better for the game if jump balls would be held wherever a call of this type occurred, rather than at both foul lines or in the center circle. Otherwise the group was pleased with the manner in which the great game of basketball is being run. Speaking of the local college brings to mind the fact that each team in the senior division of the Monroe County YMCA Invitation Basketball Tournament may feature one college player. This rule is brand new this year, as varsity college men have been frowned on in the tournament for many years.

Harry Schaeffer walked only two men in the four hitless innings the former pitcher for the Stroudsburg Poconos hurled against the St. Louis Cardinals. Schaeffer went into the contest in the sixth frame and quickly retired Stan Musial. The next two batters walked, but the fourth starter went out on a fly to center and the fifth was retired on a ground ball to third. This was the last time the Cards were to get a runner as far as the initial sack. Schaeffer failed to register a strikeout, but his presence of control undoubtedly pleased the Yankee brass no end.

The movement of the Boston Braves to Milwaukee also featured a note of local interest. Since the Braves moved into Milwaukee, the American Association team that formerly operated in that city was forced to move to Toledo. One of the candidates for the first base job on the Toledo club is none other than Harry Warner, a resident of Reeders. Warner is a former baseball and basketball star at Pocono High school and received his pro diamond start with the Stroudsburg Poconos.

Duane "Chuck" Sorber, catcher for Berwick during the 1950 North Atlantic League season, is now a candidate for a similar position with the Scranton Miners, of the class "A" Eastern League. In 1951 Sorber, a native of Shamokin, played with Duluth, of the class "C" Northern League, and last season was with Harrisburg, of the class "B" Interstate League. Dick Porter, former Wilkes-Barre manager, recommended Sorber to Scranton this season.

Alden "Red" Fetherman, well known local athlete who made his mark at Stroudsburg High, departs for Scranton's spring training base in Winter Garden, Fla., today, good luck, "Red." Doug Schoenover is visiting in the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg area this weekend, following a successful basketball campaign at Fairview Township High, in Mountain Top, Pa. Doug reportedly is doing a fine job as both a basketball and baseball coach. Charley Besecker, well known golfer from the Tannersville area, getting the urge to try a few swings with the arrival of spring.

Don Manbing, former basketball star at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, and now cage mentor at Montrose, Ohio, coached the East Susquehanna League all-stars in a basketball tournament that ended at Keystone Junior College last night. The Jim Lemon that is making such a firm bid for a regular outfield position with the Cleveland Indians is actually Bob Lemon who held down right field for Bloomington, N. J., when that club was entered in the now defunct North Atlantic League. Anyone who would have watched Lemon go down time and time again on strikes five years ago would never believe that this is the boy. Lemon apparently has mastered the fine art of hitting. The big guy always had plenty of power.

Don't forget that the Reeders baseball club, of the Pocono Mountains League, is holding a benefit dance at the Reeders Hotel, a week from today. All benefits realized from the affair will go toward the operation of the club during the coming summer months. Clair Bloss, combination infielder-outfielder for Tannersville, also of the Pocono Mountains League, has been knocked out by the flu in recent days.

Boxer Draws Suspension

Huntington, W. Va. (AP) — The State Athletic Commission yesterday put an indefinite suspension on Ron Harper, Charleston, W. Va., welterweight, but restored the license of Promoter Jack Laken in a hassle over a cancelled boxing card.

Harper was grounded because he failed to mention a tach in his side when he was examined by the commission's doctor before the cancellation.

Called Off

Harper was to have met Basil Marine of Charleston Thursday night in the eight-round feature of a boxing program promoted by Lakeh and sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Laken called the show off about half an hour before the first bell. He explained Harper had a flat tire on the way to the arena and got the injury when his auto jack slipped.

Browns Take Measure Of Cubs

Buffalo, N. Y. (AP) — Five defending champions will be on hand here tonight in the 1953 AAU Women's Indoor Track and Field Championships.

Record

Topping the list is one U. S. record holder, Nancy Moreau of Boston. She set the accepted mark of eight feet 10 inches a year ago in winning the standing broad jump.

Anglee Gains Verdict

Amsterdam, (AP) — Charley Anglee, Pawtucket, R. I., middleweight who has done all of his fighting in Europe for nearly two years, outpointed Kay Kaho of the Gold Coast in a one-sided 10-round fight last night.

Tigers Win Over Reds, 13-12

Tampa, Fla., (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds overcame an early six-run deficit and then blew a four-run lead of their own during a weird ninth inning as they bowed to the Detroit Tigers here yesterday, 13 to 12.

Error Helps

Trailing by four runs going into the ninth, the Tigers, with the help of Wally Post's miff of a fly ball with the bases loaded, tallied five times.

This was the highest total run game of the Grapefruit League.

Berger Doing Fine Job As Assistant Coach In Two Different Sports At Stroudsburg High

By Jim Riley

Assistant coaches work behind the scenes and often times are hidden under the hustle and bustle of modern athletics, although the ability of an assistant mentor often reflects in the finished product of a varsity athletic squad.

Stroudsburg High has a fine assistant coach in the person of Carlton L. Berger, who just finished his second season as junior varsity basketball mentor at the W. Main St.

Editor's Note: Today's story is only one of a series covering athletic coaches in Monroe County, Bangor and Newfoundland. The series will extend until the end of the present school year.

school. The former Allentown High and Lafayette College athlete also completed his first season as assistant football coach during the current school year.

Berger has a long background of athletic ability and has absorbed some solid coaching techniques down through the years.

The Stroudsburg mentor is a graduate of Allentown and is a native of Allentown High, where he played football, basketball and baseball, at the time Birney Crum was coaching all three sports for the Canaries. Carlton, who is better known as Carl, played end in football, center in basketball and patrolled the outfield in baseball. Berger left school midway in the 1943 term and was awarded a diploma before embarking on a tour of duty with the Army Air Corps.

Berger was a Cadet and spent some time at Oklahoma A and M, at the time the Aggies sent their football team to the Cotton Bowl and the basketball squad won the NCAA championship, even though only 90 male students were in school at that time.

The Stroudsburg coach graduated from Cadet training late in 1945 and since the war was over received his honorable discharge from the service.

Carl entered Lafayette in 1946, where he played one year of football and one season of basketball, in addition to four years of baseball, the latter sport coached by Charley Gelbert then, as it is now. Berger was a member of the

Carlton L. Berger

Lafayette squad that played at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, but was unable to play that game because of a leg injury.

Berger was a member of the 1948 Lafayette diamond organization that defeated Navy for the district title and then on to defeat North Carolina and Illinois before bowing to Yale in the eastern NCAA title game. The tournament was held at Winston-Salem, N. C., that season.

Carl played only one year of football in college because of a leg injury and held down a position on the basketball squad only during his sophomore year.

The Army air corps didn't allow its Cadets to take part in sports outside of the regular program, so Berger's service athletics were very limited.

Berger's current post is his first teaching and coaching position, although he formerly assisted Crum in the Allentown Playground system. Carl teaches Pennsylvania history at the W. Main St. school.

Carl is married to the former Grace Bortz, of Parland, and the Berbers live just beyond "Long Woods," not far from Glen Brook Country Club.

Berger has many memories in sports, including the time he scored four touchdowns as an end against Nesquehoning. Another of his top thrills is playing with the Allentown High grid machine that won the "Big 15" football crown.

Allentown never won the state basketball title when Berger was a member of the team, but the Canaries gave Lower Merion a good fight in 1943, the year Lower Merion went on to land the state championship.

Carl is in charge of the sports club at Stroudsburg High, in addition to his teaching and coaching duties.

When he can find time, Berger's hobby is ceramics.

Berger's hard work and devotion of time is certain to pay off with good athletic teams at Stroudsburg High in years to come, providing capable material is on hand to carry the athletic load.

Carl is a busy man, with victory and the development of athletes uppermost in his mind. The many friends he has made in Stroudsburg in the past two years I know wish him the best of luck in the future.

Mayor Of Baltimore Angered Over Failure To Obtain Browns

Baltimore, (AP) — Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, livid with rage at the "inconsistency" of major league baseball owners, yesterday blasted American League members and Frank Shaughnessy of the International League for blocking transfer of the St. Louis Browns to Baltimore.

"There was nothing behind the American League denial of the transfer but personalities and greed," he shouted.

He also flailed Shaughnessy who demanded more than $500,000 payment to his league for loss of the Baltimore territory if the switch had occurred.

The mayor shouted charges of greed at the Mack family of the Philadelphia Athletics and the Griffith family of the Washington Senators.

Defends Veeck

And he defended Bill Veeck, owner of the Browns, saying fellow American League members did not treat Veeck "fairly" at the Tampa, Fla., meeting Monday at which the transfer was refused.

D'Alesandro's outburst came after he had run through a diplomatically worded prepared speech at a testimonial breakfast honoring his efforts to bring big league baseball to Baltimore.

Reached at Palm Beach where he was visiting, Shaughnessy said flatly he did not stop the deal and that one of the reasons it fell through was that Baltimore's ball park the municipal stadium was not ready.

Yankees Shell Phillies, 8-3

St. Petersburg, Fla. (AP) — The New York Yankees shelled three rookie hurlers for 16 hits yesterday and trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies, 8-3. The champs, in enjoying their best hitting afternoon of the spring, blasted a total of 27 bases.

Leads Attack

Gene Woodling led the attack with three safeties and Yogi Berra boomed a homer.

Villanova Mile Ace Suffers Initial Loss

By Dick Smith

Cleveland, (AP) — Olympic Medalist Bob Richards, the Illinois vaulting vicar, broke a Cleveland Knights of Columbus Track Meet record last night by clearing 15 feet three and one-quarter inches in the pole vault. Shortly before Lenny Truex handed Villanova's Freddy Dwyer his first defeat of the season in the mile.

Rev. Richards' rival, Don Laz, went out at 15 feet one and three-quarter inches. Richards held the old meet record jointly with Laz at 15 feet, one inch, set in 1951.

Truex thrilled a crowd of 8,298 by beating off a last-lap bid by Fred Wilt, the FBI fleetfoot, and came home a good five yards ahead. Dwyer finished fourth.

Three other Olympic medalists scored easy triumphs—Harrison Dillar in the 45-yard high hurdles and 45-yard dash; Mal Whitfield in the 600-yard run, and Horace Ashenfelter in the two-mile.

A former Ohio State runner, Truex moved in front about half way along after Dwyer had set the early pace.

Moves Up

Wilt moved up from last to second on the next-to-final lap, but his closing burst was a good five yards short of catching Truex.

The winning time of four minutes 11.8 seconds was well over Truex's four minute, 7.8 second mark in Milwaukee last week, and also above Dwyer's best indoor effort of the season: 4:08.1.

Whitfield, a two-time Olympic 800-meter champ and former Ohio State runner, finished a full four yards ahead of Herb McKenley in the 600.

Mal was clocked at one minute, 11.5 seconds, compared with his meet record of 1:10.8 three years ago and his national mark of 1:09.5 last month.

Dillard, running the 45-yard dash here for the first time, missed the tenths and meet record by two-tenths of a second in beating Willie Williams of Illinois. His time was 4.9 seconds.

Hawkins Leads In Jacksonville Open Tourney

Jacksonville, Fla., (AP) — Fred Hawkins sank a 125-yard number nine iron shot for an eagle on the last hole to take the opening day lead in the Jacksonville Open Golf Tournament yesterday.

Hawkins, 29-year-old native of Illinois who plays out of Al Paso, Texas, scored his 65—seven under par over the 6,508-yard Hyde Park Municipal Course—in mid afternoon.

It held up against the assault of dozens of tournament-wise veterans who were more highly regarded.

Sam Sneed, twice winner of the Jacksonville Open, was four over par on the first four holes and then made one of the finest recoveries ever seen with a 31 on the second nine to post a 69 for the first of the four rounds in the 72 hole tournament.

Threesome

Sneed played in the same threesome with amateur Frank Stranahan, Toledo.

Stranahan played it 32-39—71, while Sneed had 38-31—69. Stranahan was low among the amateurs.

J. Hebert, former Louisiana State University golfer playing out of Erie, Pa., was second to Hawkins with 33-33—66. Hebert putted well all the way around, scoring six birdies and 12 pars.

These two younger players took the spotlight off the favorites but the rest of the field was easily within striking distance.

Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill., and Art Doering, Cincinnati, tied for third at 67. Several others were bunched within three strokes.

Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa., was one of nine with 70.

Milwaukee Swamps Cards

Bradenton, Fla. (AP) — Winning their first game as the Milwaukee Braves, Manager Charlie Grimm's lads swung away for 17 hits yesterday to hand the St. Louis Cardinals their worst defeat of a losing spring, 12-2.

Biggest Blow

Biggest blow was in the Braves' attack was a three-run home run hit by rookie Bob Mainzer off pitcher Bob Tiefenauer in the eighth inning.

Springer Wins Decision

West Palm Beach, Fla., (AP) — Eddie Springer, 158, Duluth, Minn., was floored for an eighth count in the sixth round but won a wide decision over Glen Hendershot, 154, Birmingham, N. Y., in a bloody eight-round main event last night at the Legion Arena.

French Fighter Suffers Wound

Paris, (AP) — Ray Famechon, 28-year-old former European feather-weight boxing champion, was in a hospital last night with a shotgun wound in his left shoulder.

On hearing a shot yesterday morning, his wife told police, she came downstairs from the bedroom to the studio in their suburban Aulnay-Sous-Bois home and found the fighter lying on the floor with a hunting gun beside him.

Operation

Famechon underwent an operation during the day for the wound. Attendants at the hospital indicated the injury was not serious.

Mrs. Famechon told police she believed her husband was injured while cleaning the gun.

Bratton Rallies To End Jones' Upset Plans In Fifth Round

By Murray Rose

New York, (AP) — Hard-hitting Johnny Bratton of Chicago came from behind last night to knock out Bobby Jones of Oakland, Calif., in 2:32 of the fifth round of a nationally televised bout at Madison Square Garden. Bratton weighed 149, Jones 152.

A 17 to 5 favorite, the flashy 25-year-old Chicago welterweight was taking a good licking until he nailed his clever rival midway in the fifth with a smashing right to the jaw. Another right wobbled the former California middleweight champion.

Undoing

Although he was dazed, Jones punched back at his keyed up opponent. That was his undoing.

Bratton clipped him with a terrific left hook to the jaw and Jones fell on his back.

He staggered to his feet as Referee Ray Miller counted 10 and then sagged against the ropes.

Up until the fifth, it looked like Jones was going to spring an upset just as his stablemate, Ralph "Tiger" Jones, pulled on Bratton last December 5.

Scoring effectively with a long left jab and occasional rights and then switching to a crowding style which gave Bratton no punching room, Jones swept the first two rounds and the fourth.

Sauer May Be Out For Month

San Bernardino, Calif. (AP) — It may be a little finger, but it is a matter of big importance to the Chicago Cubs, this broken finger nursed yesterday by "Hank" Sauer.

It may keep big "Hank", the 1952 "most valuable player" in the National League, out of action for a month, and throw him out of stride for two months.

Slide

The Californian broke the finger—it's the right little digit—in a slide earlier this week. The break is slantwise from the joint toward the hand.

Sauer himself regards the mishap as no tremendous calamity, and even said he hopes to be ready to play on opening day.

Red Sox Edge A's, 5-4

Robinson Drills At First

Miami, (AP) — Charlie Dessen, Brooklyn manager, explained why Jackie Robinson, all-star second baseman now playing third, is also working out at first base.

"Just a precautionary move against Gil Hodges getting hurt before Wayne Belardi is able to play," said Dessen.

Operation

Belardi, Hodges' understudy, will undergo an operation on his left elbow Tuesday at Long Island College Hospital.

June 21 to July 21 (Cancer)—A good day, if you take heed of many adverbs, takes now in stars. Meteorologists, navigators, geologists among top favorites.

July 21 to August 21 (Leo)—Ask co-operation, get into swing of things. Hasty day for handling complex, making contracts, trading, building. So, too, romance.

August 21 to September 21 (Virgo)—Explore new ideas in business and other matters. No need for useless risks. Ventures. Mind others' feelings in your affairs.

September 21 to October 21 (Libra)—Many fertile fields open, especially where your intuition and accuracy are valued. We all have hidden assets we seldom use. Bring them out and achieve.

October 21 to November 21 (Scorpio)—Could be just the sort of day the doctor ordered. The Scorpio native with wise insight will achieve lasting reward, move forward steadily.

November 21 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—May be heavy duty in work, and especially if you skip the hard chores to take easy ones first. The steady worker can make some gains.

December 21 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Today should be in the profitable category. With your aid. Excellent planetary vibrations for worthy efforts.

January 21 to February 21 (Aquarius)—Don't seek just material profits, credit or position. Spiritual benefits, building of character mean far more.

February 21 to March 21 (Pisces)—Do what you do well, and with dispatch. Have facts, don't act on impulse or someone else's say-so without reasoning.

YOU BORN TODAY: Instantly idealistic. Appreciate science, mechanical and philosophical knowledge. Likely fond of travel, surely of good times. Should prosper with honorably aggressive people. Scorpio, Taurus, Capricorn are progressive allies. Your nature is somewhat contradictory. While sympathetic, you are occasionally seen selfish, too exacting. Birth-date of: Pasquale Amato, great opera singer.

Smiths File Countersuit For $35,000

Easton—Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith, Saylorsburg, Monroe County, filed a countersuit for damages in Northampton County Court this week. They are asking $35,000.

The suit, the result of an automobile accident Dec. 14, 1951, was brought against Daniel Turzio, of Wind Gap. Turzio filed a suit against the Smiths for $25,000 Feb. 18 as the result of the same accident.

The papers filed by the Smiths allege that Mrs. Smith suffered a crushed chest and other injuries of a permanent nature.

Mr. Shiffer was graduated from Fairview Academy, Brodheadsville, and taught school in the village four years. Moving to this place, he taught in the Saucon Township schools for 50 years, retiring on pension 14 years ago.

He was a member of Christ Evangelical and Reformed Church, and was a former judge of election and auditor in the borough.

PRR To Fight Weight Bill

Philadelphia, Pa.—Walter S. Franklin, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad said yesterday the PRR "would fight again, as vigorously as before, any effort to increase truck weights on the state's highways."

But Franklin testified the PRR had "no plans at present" to fight the heavy trucking industry "because no bill has been introduced in the state legislature."

Franklin, together with Martin W. Clement, former PRR president and board chairman, denied allegations that certain members of the Pennsylvania Legislature were on the railroad's payroll and that the PRR used "front organizations"—keeping PRR backing secret—to fight the truckers.

Both men were witnesses yesterday in the pre-trial taking of depositions in the 250 million dollar damage suit filed against 31 Eastern railroads and Carl Bjor Associates, New York public relations firm, by 37 trucking firms and the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association.

Sportsmen Okay Separate Buck, Doe Seasons

Federation Turns Down Suggestions

Harrisburg, (AP) — Leaders of Pennsylvania's organized sportsmen voiced approval yesterday of the commonwealth's present plan of holding separate buck and antlerless deer seasons.

Directors of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs rejected a number of proposed changes in the annual deer season at the opening of their two-day convention.

The resolutions will come up again today at the general meeting of the 200 district delegates. However, they are expected to follow the suggestions of the directors.

The directors also renewed their opposition to a proposed merger of the State Fish and Game Commission with the State Forests and Water Department.

The plan was suggested by the Chesterman Economy Committee. It said the merger could save a million dollars a biennium in operational costs.

One rejected resolution called for the repeal of Pennsylvania's two-year old law requiring a hunter to obtain a special doe permit to hunt antlerless deer in a certain county. The doe permit is in addition to the regular hunting license.

Another discarded resolution would have banned the hunting of doe during 1953. Still another would have permitted a "hunters choice" season—an open season on deer regardless of sex.

The directors also rejected a number of other proposed resolutions calling for an increase in bounties on foxes, placing a county on bobcats and calling for a legislative investigation of the State Game Commission's expenditures.

Altogether, only a very few of the 66 proposed resolutions screened by the directors, were approved.

The approved resolutions called for:

An increase from $100 to $300 in the fine for the willful killing of an illegal deer.

The game commission to greatly increase its program for the propagation and distribution of native rabbits.

Permit fishing between March 14 and April 15 in water not stocked with trout.

That the fish commission establish a season's limit on trout.

The State Sanitary Water Board to provide "more stringent supervision of disposal from small boroughs and municipalities."

Legislation to provide for a minimum six months' jail sentence for individuals or companies convicted for a second time of causing stream pollution.

Greatly increased penalties for strip mine operators who fail to backfill their operations upon completion of their coal removal.

County Offers $1,000 Reward In Bid To Solve Murders

Easton—The Northampton County commissioners yesterday offered a reward of $1,000 in connection with the murder of Gail Schultz, 18, and her half-brother, Paul G. Schultz Jr., 12, Upper Nazareth Twp., March 7.

The reward will be paid only if the person arrested is convicted of murder, it was announced. Capt. Charles S. Cook, state police commanding officer in the area, and District Attorney Elias W. Spengler will choose the person entitled to the money. In the event more than one person is chosen the money shall be divided among them, it was pointed out.

The children's bodies were found in a foot of water in a ditch within sight of their home.

Capt. Cook said yesterday there had been no new developments in the case. Nazareth Boy Scouts yesterday scoured the area but found nothing.
